(Offered Monday through Wednesday)

Drugs & Society

This course explores the impact of drugs on the family and society. Topics will include signs & symptoms of drug use, referral resources impact addiction has on the individual, his family and the general society.

Prevention Group Facilitation

This course covers group development and methods to move groups through the process. Topics will include types of groups, differences in communication styles due to gender and culture, types of learning styles, modeling communication/social skills, and techniques to establish rapport with and among participants.

Addiction & the Family

This course explores how healthy families succeed, the challenges of working with a child from an addicted family. Topics will include elements of a healthy family, roles in an addicted family, cultural differences in families, signs & symptoms of child abuse and tools to enhance family organization and management skills.

One Day Courses

Prevention Ethics

(Session 1 – Thursday, Session 2 – Friday)

This course delves into the ethics in substance abuse prevention and the diverse issues that arise. The topics will include the need for policies for staff delivering prevention services, the requirements for prevention and treatment confidentiality, defining the limits of your skills, safeguarding service records, and legal reporting requirements.

Human Development

(Friday)

This course is specialized for the prevention professional. This course concentrates on how a participant's age and developmental stage impacts the selection of prevention programs. Topics will include European and Native American models of cognitive, social and psychosocial development, healthy human growth and development and the impact of a parent's addiction on their children's development..
